PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Dear Colleagues and Friends,

First, I would like to welcome all of you to our meeting in this wonderful town. I hope you have had a healthy and productive year. This year's meeting is truly special in many respects. As you may know, 2005 is the Year of Languages. All professionals in this field have been celebrating this special year, and we will also be celebrating the 10th anniversary of our annual meeting during the next few days. I am honored to be a part of this celebration as the president. I am extremely grateful to our past presidents: Professor Ho-min Sohn, our first president, Professor Yoo-Sang Rhee, our second president, and Professor Joe Jungno Ree, our third president, for their efforts to be here with us today. They have been guiding lights to us and we all, especially myself, are much indebted to their guidance. I am very excited to hear their words of wisdom and I guess you are, too.

I am also grateful for the Korea Foundation's continued generous support for our meeting, without which this meeting would not have been possible. On behalf of AATK, I would like to express my sincere appreciation to the Foundation. I am also grateful for the College of Humanities, Department of Asian and Near Eastern Languages, Linguistics Department, the Language Center, the English Language Center, and the David M. Kennedy Center for International Studies of Brigham Young University for graciously hosting our meeting and providing necessary support. I would like to thank Dr. Mark Peterson, the Chair of this year's meeting, for working tirelessly for the past several months. As you all know well, one's sacrifice, commitment and dedication make all the difference. I would also like to thank the planning committee members who dedicated their time and energy in various capacities. My thanks should also go to the presenters whose contribution is an essential ingredient for the success of our meeting.

I am very pleased to have Dr. Ray Clifford with us today as a plenary speaker and would like to thank him for accepting our invitation. He is so prominent in the foreign language education field and doesn't need any more introductions. We are ready to be inspired by his talk.

Now, let me briefly summarize what had happened since our last meeting. Our executive secretary, Professor Clare You of UC Berkeley, resigned her position immediately after the meeting at Duke. She was assigned to serve as the Director of Center for Korean Studies at Berkeley. I was very sad to hear the news that she had to leave the position, but she promised that she would continue to help us in all possible ways she can. Dr. Byung-Joon Lim at DLI succeeded Professor You and has been doing a wonderful job. I would like to thank

Professor You for her dedicated service and Professor Lim for his anticipated contribution to AATK as an officer. Our last year's conference proceeding, The Korean Language in America Vol. 9 was disseminated to the libraries of 20 major universities in the United States as part of our effort to increase its availability. I would like to thank Dr. Andrew Byon, our treasurer, for working on this project. The Korean Language in America has been receiving wider recognition. We will strive harder to raise the quality of this very important publication. As previously announced, beginning this year, The Korean Language in America will be a post-conference publication (e.g., tentatively titled: The Korean Language in America: 'Selected papers from the xxxth annual conference'). If your school wishes to receive a copy in the future, please contact Dr. Byon.

I understand that all of you have received an e-mail earlier this year from Dr. Sahie Kang regarding establishing Korean Special Interest Group in ACTFL. We needed 100 signatures for the group to be recognized by ACTFL, but were a few names short of it. We strive to maintain close affiliations with NCOLCTL and ACTFL, two of the major national organizations for foreign language professionals. We have been a member organization of NCOLCTL for many years. Joining ACTFL has been one of our future goals, and Dr. Kang is still working on it for another opportunity. Please join me in thanking Dr. Kang for taking initiatives and doing all the necessary work. I also would like to express my gratitude to those who sent their signatures and took interest in this process. I will keep you posted on how things are developing.

AATK bulletin board has been created since last year's meeting to facilitate better communication among members. Members have been discussing common issues, posting announcements, and sharing ideas. All credits go to Dr. Eun Joo Kim and Dr. Byung-Joon Lim. I encourage you to take advantage of this useful tool. Any concerns and/or suggestions should be delivered to Dr. Lim.

I was invited to attend this year's AAS (Association for Asian Studies) meeting in Chicago in March. Representatives of Chinese, Japanese, Korean and South Asian Language Organizations formed a panel and discussed common issues associated with teaching Asian languages in American institutions. It was a wonderful experience. This panel was the first of its kind, and we hope to continue this discussion in the future.

AATK has been growing steadily and this was clearly reflected in membership increase. Twenty seven new members joined the association since last meeting, and as of May, 232 members are listed in our list-serve. A majority of new members are student members. This has been the case for the past few years. While I am delighted to welcome new members, I cannot help stressing the important role of old members. I especially would like to urge inactive members' more enthusiastic participation.

American Association of Teachers of Korean

Our 2006 professional development workshop and conference will be held jointly in Rutgers-Princeton from June 22nd through 24th. Professor Youngmee Yu Cho at Rutgers and Professor Gwee-Sook Kim at Princeton have already embarked on groundwork. If you have any suggestions or questions, please contact us.

Let us wish another fruitful and successful meeting. I hope you have an enjoyable and rewarding time. I also wish you another healthy and productive year. Thank you.

With warmest regards,
Hye-Sook Wang
President
